DAY 1 INTERVIEW GUIDE

Jack Claybourne and Ashley Palmer

Goal: share initial thoughts on reframing V&S and test hypotheses. Listen more than you talk.

Open: "We have looked at the data pack and want to test a few early thoughts, not present answers. Tell us if we are wrong."

#	Question	Tests	Notes
1	If V&S reached GBP 2bn, what would a client notice that they do not today?	Reframe
2	Customers are coming more often but each visit is worth less in three stores. What is your explanation?	Value per sale
3	What did the board mean by growth: more clients, bigger baskets, or new places?	Problem statement
4	Where does the colleague experience hold the client experience back?	BXT: X
5	Logistics is 17.5% of revenue. What drives it, and what has been tried?	Operations
6	58% of web visits are outside the UK. Is that an intended audience?	Beyond the brief
7	Which numbers in the data pack do you trust least?	Caveats
8	What would make you say no to a bold idea?	Constraints

Jack: lead with 1 to 4 (ambition, experience). Ashley: lead with 5, 7, 8 (operations, data, constraints).

DAY 2 INTERVIEW GUIDE

Jesse Stanway and Anshu Sharma

Buying and Marketing. Test assumptions and bring them into the co-creation activity.

#	Question	For	Notes
1	The stock-order process has four pain points. Which hurts most, and who feels it first?	Jesse
2	What is in the basket in Birmingham that is not in London?	Jesse
3	Which brands would you add or drop to raise value per sale?	Jesse
4	Why do contact-us and delivery FAQ pages get 1.9x the views of womenswear?	Anshu
5	What do we know about conversion, by country?	Anshu
6	Golf is 10.7% of keyword visits. Is that a niche we own, or noise?	Anshu
7	What would the ideal client journey look like if you drew it today?	Both
8	If you could change one thing next month, what would it be?	Both

Close: play back the reframe in one sentence and ask "Is that right?" Then invite them into the 20-minute canvas.

LEAVE-BEHIND

One Virley experience in every channel

For Jack Claybourne and Ashley Palmer. Draft for discussion.

What we heard

Revenue of GBP 1.26bn at an 8.0% EBIT margin, against an ambition of GBP 2bn and a 10% margin.

What the data says

- Customers are coming: number of sales rose 7.6% in FY-1, but value per sale fell 8.1% (13% in London).
- London sales fell 6.5% while Birmingham grew 8.4%. A Birmingham basket is about GBP 115, London about GBP 63.
- Logistics costs 17.5% of revenue, 20.6% in Edinburgh.
- Online earned GBP 5.7m from 982k visits; 58% of visits come from outside the UK.
- Delivery and contact pages draw 1.9x the views of womenswear.

Reframed opportunity

Not how to grow each channel, but how to make every visit worth more, in every channel, for clients and colleagues alike.

Bold idea: Virley Everywhere

One experience across stores and online, built on Business, eXperience and Technology together, so a client is known wherever they arrive and a colleague has what they need to serve them.

Decisions we ask for

1. Endorse the reframe.
2. Prove the model in one place first.
3. Name sponsors for business, experience and technology.

Next 30 days

- Close the data gaps (online conversion, store-level P&L, definition of profit).
- Run the co-creation activity with the buying and marketing directors.
- Size the four beyond-the-brief opportunities.

Figures from the V&S data pack; currency assumed GBP. The 10% EBIT gap (about GBP 25m) is arithmetic, not a forecast.
